Legendary explorers have crossed the Greenland Ice Sheet, and you can follow in their footsteps. Spending a night in a tent and taking a hike across the vast ice is the perfect top-off to your Greenlandic adventure.

Day 1 – 30 May - Copenhagen - Kangerlussuaq – Ice Camp

Everyone will meet at Copenhagen airport to board a 4.5 hour flight enroute to Kangerlussuaq in the early afternoon. On arrival you will be taken to the Ice Camp in an all-terrain vehicle which will take about an hour before arriving at Point 660, on the edge of the ice cap. Here, an important briefing on safety and the coming activities will be announced.

Following an experienced guide, you will venture onto the Greenland Ice Sheet, following in the footsteps of legendary explorers. You will hike a few kilometres to your destination, where first priority is setting up camp. It is then time to relax with a warm beverage and enjoy the total silence that the ice sheet imposes.

Dinner will be wholesome, simple, and warm, consisting of freeze-dried food that is easy to carry on such an expedition. In an environment where no other food sources are available, this humble meal will feel like even more of a gift.

Meals: Breakfast and Dinner

Day 2 – 31 May: Ice Camp - Kangerlussuaq

Following a night spent snuggled in your warm sleeping bag and an energy-packed breakfast, a hike is planned. You will proceed with care over seemingly eternal fields of ice, following the guide and always being careful of any potential ice fissures. Throughout the duration of this expedition, you will maintain a safe distance from danger and plot a route across secure terrain. Crampons and trekking poles will provide each guest with extra stability. Ropes will not be used.

Please note: As a participant on this trip, it is expected that you are willing to pull a sled with your own/group equipment from the ice edge to the camp. This effort is considered by the majority of participants to be a fairly easy and natural task to perform but be aware it is expected.

Depending on weather conditions, you will either enjoy our packed lunch whilst hiking or back at base camp. As the adventure concludes, you will break camp, pack up our goods and leave only your footprints behind.

You will then be driven back to Kangerlussuaq to check into the Polar Lodge, where you will stay for the evening. Dinner will be at Roklubben.
